Stampede Named Exclusive North and South American Distributor for isiQiri Q-Screen

“Shooting Gallery” to Highlight Q-Screen’s Interactivity at Stampede’s Western-Themed InfoComm Booth

Orlando, FL, May 31, 2011 — Stampede, the leading value-added distributor of professional audio video (ProAV) solutions, has been named the exclusive North and South American distributor for isiQiri’s Q-Screen. Q-Screen is a unique, patented technology that transforms any standard front projection screen into a fully interactive, multi-user, multi-touch screen. Visitors to InfoComm ‘11 in Orlando will be able to interact with isiQiri’s Q-Screen through a fun “shooting gallery” on a massive 12’ screen at Stampede’s Western-themed booth (location #2575).

Q-Screen is a unique, patented, light-conductive foil system which, when added to the rear side of front projection systems, creates a completely interactive surface. The Q-Screen interactive experience is controlled using up to four discrete laser, “Q-pointer” devices, bringing true multi-user, multi-point interaction to standard projection screens. Q-Screen is entirely modular and can therefore be built to accommodate anything from 6’ diagonal to cinema scale screens. Because of its unique properties, the Q-foil modules can also accommodate curved or large dome projection surfaces.

“It’s a truly unique innovation,” says Bob Senior, isiQiri’s president, who is responsible for the company’s U.S. market entry. “It will open new avenues of interactivity and reinvigorate the projection industry bringing new market opportunities and leveraging the growing content base of multi-user, multi-touch material. We are also very excited about our partnership with Stampede, who has the reputation, reach and professionalism to help us bring this unique new product to market.”

“The Q-Screen Shooting Gallery will be the star attraction of our InfoComm booth,” said Kevin Kelly, Stampede president and COO. “Once they see it in action, our dealers are going to enthusiastically embrace this technology. The Q-Screen gives dealers a sales opportunity for customers who were previously reluctant to completely change over to a new interactive system. With Q-Screen dealers can offer a quick, easy and affordable upgrade to state-of-the-art technology. This is just what the market is demanding.”

Stampede’s booth will be in location #2575 at InfoComm ‘11. isiQiri’s Q-Screens can also be found in Stampede’s “Big Book of AV,” available online at BigBookofAV.com.
