Stampede Adds Comprehensive to Product Line

Last week, Stampede announced the introduction of the Comprehensive product line to their product offering. Comprehensive brand products will now be available from Stampede, to their entire base of dealers and systems integrators.

“Comprehensive wants to make access to our products even more convenient for all dealers and systems integrators and we are excited to be working with Stampede. They are an impressive organization”, stated Comprehensive President, Scott Schaefer.

Dealers may continue to buy direct from Comprehensive but those that prefer to purchase through distribution for convenience can now add Comprehensive premium connectivity products to their flat panel and projector orders from Stampede.

Comprehensive’s sister companies, Hamilton Electronics and Buhl Industries will now also be offered by Stampede.

About Comprehensive

In 1974, the audio-visual market was still in its infancy but Comprehensive was there, manufacturing our first premium connectivity products and publishing our first catalog of professional video accessories and supplies for this new technology called “A/V”. Over the years, the Comprehensive catalog became a “must have” for every video and audio professional and our Comprehensive brand cable performance became legendary.
