Stampede Expands and Relocates Canadian Headquarters

Move from Aerowood Drive to Matheson Boulevard Adds 80 Percent More Space for Growing Company

Mississauga, On, November 4, 2009 - Stampede, the leading value-added distributor of presentation and home theater technology, has moved its Canadian headquarters to a 9,000-square-foot office at 165 Matheson Boulevard in Mississauga, an increase of 4,000 square feet from the growing company's previous Canadian office, also in Mississauga. In addition to traditional office space, the new location includes two specially equipped training rooms where Stampede's vendors will educate the company's dealers about new products.

"We increased our Canadian office space by 80 percent, giving us the capacity to triple our staff here," said Kevin Kelly, Stampede president and COO. "The extra space enables us to keep up with our growth and it also gives us two state-of-the-art training rooms to better serve our local dealers."

Stampede moved its five-person Canadian staff to the Matheson Boulevard location in late August. The previous office, 1200 Aerowood Drive, was leased from ING Real Estate Canada. The new Matheson Boulevard office is being leased from Kostruba & Sons, Inc.
